FIVE DAYS BATTLE

Gen. Kuroki's Army Forced a Crossing of the Yalu River Sunday Morning.

THE RUSSIANS WERE DRIVEN BACK

Japanese Losses Were About 700 Killed and Wounded and the Russians Lost Over 800 Men.

The Japs May Force the Abandonment of the Defenses Erected By the Russians at Antung and Other Points.

Tokio, May 2.—After five days of fighting, largely with artillery, the first Japanese army under Gen. Kuroki has forced a crossing of the Yalu river and Sunday with a gallant infantry charge covering a frontage of four miles it drove the Russians from Chiu Tien Cheng and the heights on the right bank of the Iho or Aida river which enters the Yalu from the north almost opposite Wiju. The Japanese turned the left flank of the Russian position and in the battle of Sunday they swept away the new front interposed by the Russians to check their onward movement.

The present position of the Japanese is a dominating one, and they may force the abandonment of the defenses erected by the Russians at Antung and other points lower down the river. Gen. Kuroki began the movement on Tuesday by ordering a detachment of the imperial guards division to seize the island of Kurito, which is in the Yalu above Wiju and a detachment of the second division to seize the island of Kinteito, which is situated below Wiju.

Met With Resistance.

The detachment of the imperial guards met with resistance but it succeeded in clearing the enemy out and occupied Kurito island. The Russians abandoned the island of Kinteito when attacked by the detachment of the second division. The detachment of the second division which took the island of Kinteito sustained no losses.

During the movements on the islands the Russians opened fire on the Japanese with eight 9 1/2 centimetre guns from a hill behind Chiu Tien Cheng and two Hotchkiss guns which were mounted on the bank of the river at Kosan.

The Russians seemed to have established their headquarters. One battery of Japanese artillery which had taken a position on a hill to the east of Wiju fired three volleys at Kosan and at noon of Tuesday the Russian batteries behind Chiu Tien Cheng shelled Wiju, wounding one Japanese soldier with shrapnel. On Wednesday the Russians resumed the bombardment of Wiju, firing at intervals throughout the day. The Japanese artillery did not respond to this fire.

BOMBARDED WIJU.

The Japs' Artillery Did Not Respond to the Fire of the Russians.

The Russians resumed their bombardment on Thursday, but it was generally ineffective. Subsequently Gen. Kuroki ordered two companies of the imperial guards to cross the Yalu and make a reconnaissance along the left bank of the Iho for the purpose of discovering the view of the Russian fortifications along the right bank of the river. The Japanese force advanced toward Kosan, and then dispatched a small detachment to the village where a party of Russians was encountered. In the engagement which followed five Russians were killed.

The Russian artillery on the hill behind Chiu Tien Cheng, firing at a high angle, opened on Wiju, the islands of Kurito and Selkodo, to the south of Wiju, where some Japanese batteries had taken position. This firing continued into Thursday night and Gen. Kuroki reports that while it was ineffective, it disturbed his preparations for an attack. The Russians resumed the shelling of Wiju on Friday but the Japanese guns did not reply.

First Crossing of the Yalu.

The twelfth division of the Japanese army was chosen to make the first crossing of the Yalu. It began its preparations on Friday by driving the Russians from their position on the bank of the river opposite Sui Kochin. This division constructed a pontoon bridge over the river and at 3 o'clock Saturday morning it began crossing. The entire division passed over the river during the day and by 6 o'clock Saturday evening it was in the position assigned to it for the battle of Sunday.

At 10:40 o'clock Saturday morning the Russian artillery posted to the north and to the east of Chiu Tien Cheng began shelling the patrols of Japanese infantry which had been dispatched from Kinteito and under Chiu Tien Cheng. The Japanese batteries replied to this shelling and silenced the Russian fire. Later eight Russian guns posted on a hill to the east of the hill at Makao opened upon the imperial guards. To this shelling the Japanese artillery to the east of Wiju responded and the Russians ceased firing.

RUSSIAN GUNS SILENCED.

It is Believed the Japanese Fire Was Very Effective.

Then both the Chiu Tien Cheng and the Makao batteries responded and this fire brought a vigorous response from the chain of Japanese batteries on the Korean side of the river. The Russian guns fired for two hours before they were silenced. In his report Gen. Kuroki expresses the belief that his shelling was very effective against the Russians.

A bridge across the main stream of the Yalu just above Wiju was completed at 8 o'clock Saturday night and the second Japanese division and the imperial guards immediately began crossing. They advanced and occupied the hills back of Kosan, facing the Russian position on the right bank of the river. All Saturday night regiment after regiment of Japanese soldiers poured across the bridge. Gen. Kuroki at daylight Sunday centered all his artillery on the Russian position between Chiu Tien Cheng and Yoshoko. To this fire the Russians made reply with all their batteries. At 7 o'clock in the morning the Russian battery at Yoshoko was silenced and half an hour later Gen. Kuroki ordered his line, stretching for four miles, to attack. The Japanese infantry on the word of command charged across the Iho, wading that stream breast deep and began storming the heights at 8:15. At 9 o'clock they had swept the Russian line back across the plateau.

The Losses on Both Sides.

The Japanese losses on the Yalu Sunday were about 700 killed and wounded. The Russians lost over 800 men. The Japanese captured 28 quick-firing guns, 20 officers and many men. The Russians made two stands.

The Japanese Sunday captured Chiu Tien Cheng, ten miles north of Antung, which is regarded as the key to Russian position on the right bank of the Yalu river. It is understood that the Russians will retreat to Feng Han Cheng, which is on the road to Liao Yang.

JAPANESE INGENUITY.

They Made a Demonstration Off Port Arthur April 27.

Port Arthur, May 2.—Details of the demonstration off Port Arthur on April 27 disclose the desperate ingenuity of the Japanese. The squadron set afloat a string connecting raft carrying burning materials. About 1:40 o'clock in the morning, when five miles off shore, the combustibles were fired, the wind and waves bringing the burning floats toward the harbor. Under cover of this screen of fire eight Japanese torpedo boats towing a launch filled with mines slipped around to a spot near where the Petrovlovsk was sunk, but they were detected by Russian searchlights, when the batteries opened fire and drove them off, but not before the mines had been sown.

The Japanese, knowing that the Russians would intercept wireless messages, tried a neat trick to deceive and worry Viceroy Alexieff. For several nights in succession they sent by wireless telegraphy orders to prepare for a landing, to send in fire ships, to attack with submarine boats, etc.

The best strike of the week was made in Cumberland county and is good for 75 barrels. A line fight has been on between the Standard and the Greensburg Oil Co., and their recent completions are within a short distance of one another. The new production in Cumberland county is 85 barrels, in Wayne county 125 barrels and in Knox county 10 barrels.

The Standard is preparing to connect several of the fields in the upper division that have no market facilities by a pipe line. A branch will be constructed from the Ragland developments in Bath county and extend through Wolfe to Morgan.

The production for a week amounts to 15,000 barrels and the month's runs will approximate a little over 60,000 barrels.

ROOF COLLAPSED.

A Large Number of Sightseers Viewing the Gunboat Nashville at St. Louis Injured.

FERRY STEAMER OVERLOADED.

The Hurricane Deck Gave Way and the Crowd Was Precipitated to the Deck Below.

Several Persons Attempted to Jump Into the River Thinking the Vessel Was Sinking, But Cooler Heads Prevented It.

St. Louis, May 2.—The hurricane roof of the ferry steamer Alonzo C. Church collapsed early Sunday evening while the steamer was crowded with sightseers viewing the United States gunboat Nashville at anchor in the river harbor here, and about 20 people were injured, a number of them being reported in a critical condition.

The ferry steamer had been carrying crowds all day from the foot of Valentine street out into midstream past the Nashville and back again. No stop was made at the Nashville owing to the heavy flood current running. As the ferry boat was rounding the Nashville and starting back to dock the crowd on the upper deck rushed to the steamer's side and out upon the hurricane deck. The strain was too great and the roof collapsed, precipitating a large number of people 20 feet to the deck below, which was also crowded. Instantly a panic ensued. Women screamed, some from injury and some from fright, and several persons attempted to jump into the river thinking the boat was sinking. Cooler heads prevented this and efforts were at once begun to succor the injured. A distress signal was blown from the boat's whistle and tugs hurried alongside, but it was deemed best to proceed to land and not attempt to place the injured on the tugs. Ambulances had been hastily called and soon after the Alonzo C. Church had reached shore the injured were being conveyed to the city hospital and many neighboring homes.

Capt. McClelland said the boat was substantially built and that the accident had been due to the excessive weight on the roof. Passengers declare there were more than 1,000 persons on the steamer, and that the deck that collapsed should not have been used for passengers. The captain of the steamer says it was not overcrowded.

An eye-witness in describing the accident said: "When the steamer was about a hundred yards from the Nashville the action of several sailors near one of the guns attracted the attention of the persons on the roof of the ferry and a rush was made to the port side of the ferry."

"Girls on the ferry were waving their handkerchiefs when there was a ripping noise, quickly followed by the crack of breaking timbers."

"A second later, with a crash that shook the steamer, the entire port side of the roof gave way, hurling more than one hundred passengers to the lower deck, 20 feet below, where they fell upon the struggling crowd which had heard the warning noise and were trying to escape. The broken railing and part of the collapsed deck fell upon them."

"Before the sound of the crash had died away, the 1,000 passengers were in a panic, those nearest the danger spot tearing the clothes from women and children in their frenzy."

"It was said the roof of the ferry boats are not equipped for passengers but owing to the crowds passengers were allowed on all parts of the boat."

ADMISSIONS TO WORLD'S FAIR.

Officially Stated That the Number Was Less Than 200,000 Saturday.

St. Louis, May 2.—While no figures were given out as to the actual number of persons who paid admission to the World's fair Saturday, it was officially stated Sunday night that the attendance was less than 200,000, but larger according to President Francis than that at the World's Columbian exposition at Chicago or the Centennial at Philadelphia on opening day.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF THE NINTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

Pursuant to a call of the Chairman your Executive Committee met at Catlettsburg Monday, April 4th, 1904, at 1 p. m., to fix the time, place and manner of nominating a candidate for Congress to be voted for at the November election, 1904. All the counties were represented.

On motion a resolution was adopted ordering a primary election for June 25th, 1904, between the hours of 6 a. m. and 4 p. m. for the purpose of selecting said nominee, the cost of said primary to be pro-rated among the different candidates.

But it was further ordered that if there be only one candidate on the 2nd day of May, 1904, who has notified the Chairman of this committee, in writing, of his candidacy, then the Chairman and Secretary of this committee are authorized and empowered to and they shall call off and revoke the order for said primary election. And if there is but one candidate at any time after that date and before the 10th day of May, 1904, they shall take the same action, and they shall declare said candidate the Democratic nominee for Congress, and shall duly certify his nomination to the Secretary of State and County Clerks of the district.

W. A. YOUNG,
Chairman Democratic District Executive Committee. Postoffice, Morehead, Ky.
C. BURGESS TAYLOR, Secretary, Maysville, Ky.

HON. JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS, the leader of the Democratic minority in the House of Representatives, is quoted as saying that "if any Congress in its first session has ever made, like the present, such an exhibition of neglect, repudiating and dodging public questions, there is certainly no record of it." Mr. Williams then goes on to give a bill of particulars, showing the various questions which have been ignored. Among these perhaps the most conspicuous is the neglect to make any provision whatever for reciprocity tariff treaties or to cause any amelioration of the Dingley tariff bill rates where they are stifling our foreign trade and causing discrimination in our foreign markets against the products of the American farm. No class of our people is so dependent upon the foreign market as the farmer, none suffer more keenly from any restriction upon American trade by foreign countries. But the American farmer has never received much consideration from the Republican party in Congress. All of the energies of that party in the National Legislature have been directed towards maintaining the home market for the American manufacturer without foreign competition.

MOST ODIOS OF ALL TRUSTS.

"The defense of the beef trust against the charge that it is a criminal combination is a denial of its own existence," remarks the N. Y. World. "Yet this phantom that is not substantial enough to be amenable to the laws has found itself able to raise the price of every pound of meat consumed in New York and Jersey City, and at the same time to keep down the prices received by the producers of the West."

"The beef combination is not only a trust, but the most odious of all trusts. It levies its toll on the food of the people. It deals in slow starvation. Tens of thousands of families eat less meat than they need, and when their health is sapped by undernutrition the deaths that follow are due to starvation just as certainly as if the end were reached in a week instead of in years."

"The beef trust own the Western stock yards, the packing houses, the refrigerator car lines and the cold storage warehouses. It boycotts every butcher who does not give it the monopoly of its trade. It determines from day to day just what the producer shall receive for his cattle."

"If a railroad combination be illegal because it has the power to restrain trade, whether the power be exercised or not, what is to be said of a combination which not only may, but does restrain trade, which tyrannizes over railroads, enforces discriminating rates, skins the producer and pinches the consumer? Is it possible to imagine a trust that comes more clearly within the restrictive intent of the law?"

Mr. H. G. Wells of this city is a member of the firm of Wells & Freeman, patentees and owners of a burial vault that is absolutely water proof and also proof against grave robbers. It is made of cement, and can be manufactured at a cost much less than any other vault now on the market. They also own an overhead lowering device, for depositing caskets and this vault in the grave. This device was invented by Mr. Wells. It is very simple in construction and can be easily operated. This vault and lowering device have only recently been completed, and are now being offered to the undertaking trade. They promise to prove a good thing financially for the patentees and makers.

"She's Just a Little Different."

In a wood lived Brother Rabbit, of most rational habit;
He would wag his ears at every bunny that he'd meet.
No one in the world of fashion thought him capable of passion till one day he up and took a little wife so sweet.
On the wedding day his sister met the happy bride and kissed her;
But like every sister she was doubtful of the match.
For she whispered to her brother: "I'd have married any other; 'she's the one I want to wed, and to all who ask me why, I can only make reply:

Refrain:
"She's just a little different from the others that I know;
Her smile is more beguiling and her voice is soft and low.
No other may discover why I dote upon her so;
She's just a little different from the others that I know."

Alfred S. Hall answers twice to the roll call of the Massachusetts house of representatives, there being two members of that body bearing that name—one from Revere and the other from Winchester. He of Revere, who is the younger, lately married a Winchester young lady, and he of Winchester, who is a widower, got most of the congratulations, his fellow members thinking it must be he that was the bridegroom, the bride being from his town. There is no end of bother in sorting out their correspondence.

CURES WITHOUT STOMACH DOSING.

Hyomei Cures Catarrh by Simple Breathing—J. J. Wood & Son Refund Money if It Fails to Cure.

A long stride toward solving the mystery of curing catarrh was taken with the discovery of Hyomei. In fact, the percentage of cures by this treatment proves it equal to the final tests.

The folly of taking medicine into the stomach to cure catarrh of the nose, throat and lungs, has been realized by physicians, but not until Hyomei was known, had they a practical method that would obviate stomach dosing.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, and consists of a neat pocket inhaler that can be used anywhere without attracting attention, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei.

Breathing Hyomei through the inhaler, every particle of air that enters the nose, throat and lungs, is charged with a healing balsam that soothes and allays all irritation, kills the catarrhal germs and enriches the blood with additional ozone.

J. J. Wood & Son have so much faith in the power of Hyomei to cure catarrh, that they are selling it under their personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not give positive relief.

THE TOBACCO MARKET.

Review of Trade on the Cincinnati Breaks For Week Ending Last Friday.

The volume of transactions was extremely light, and offerings to a large extent were drawn from warehouse stocks, the daily receipts continuing to decline rapidly.

The average quality of the new tobaccos was below that sold previous week, the greater portion being of medium and low grades, ranging from 4c to 18c.

Fine leaf and selections were in very scant supply, about 60 hnds selling at prices ranging from 15 1/2 to 24c.

Under spirited competition between the combine buyers and independent manufacturers the market took another upward turn on Tuesday, the list from low grades to fine leaf being from 15 1/2 to 26c higher.

The feature of the week's sales was the exceptionally fine quality and good prices obtained for the old tobaccos. Out of a total offering of 474 hnds, nearly 250 hnds sold above 12c, and ranging from that figure to 30c per pound, the latter being the highest price of the year for tobacco of the crop of 1902.

The last remnants of the crop are now coming on the market, and it will soon disappear on the breaks.

THE NOMADS.

Delightful Afternoon Spent by the Members and Their Guests Saturday.

The Nomad Club and a number of outsiders enjoyed a most delightful program last Saturday afternoon.

The end room of Washington Opera House held a goodly sized audience at the hour of 2 o'clock when Dr. Barbour presented, most graciously, Miss Kahn of Cincinnati who had come to Maysville at the club's solicitation and for the express purpose of giving some readings from Shakespeare. The club has delved deeply into the writings of Shakespeare during the entire time of the season past, so when Miss Kahn stepped forward and in the most delightful fashion commenced to give the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," she must have felt that the sympathy of her hearers was instantly with her. "So easily and with such charm of manner did she speak these lines," "A clear, full voice that has fine carrying powers," "A delightful personality," "The best conception possible of the play," were remarks made by her hearers.

Most appropriate to the spirit of the occasion was the music rendered. Miss Frances Barbour played in her finished way "The Shepherd" and "Morris" dances from Henry VIII. Miss Kahn followed this by two scenes from "As You Like It," and won even heartier applause than before. Here the program was varied by two vocal solos by Mrs. Conard Phister, the words thereof taken from "As You Like It." Mrs. Phister sang well, and with abandon just as she always does.

From Kipling's "Light That Failed" Miss Kahn gave a short sketch—"Melancholia," bringing it before her hearers in all its pathos; then in a happier mood and vein she responded to the encore with a "number"—"A Telephone Number," which proved most diverting, involving a woman, a bonnet, a reception and a man. The final number, a piano duet by the Misses Barbour, was in theme Shakespearean ending in a fitting way a program interesting and entertaining.

Refreshments were served, conversation was in order—thus ended the year '94 for the Nomads.

As a matter of course many who deal with us once and a while buy goods away from "home." Now "honor bright," do you derive the satisfaction from your purchases elsewhere you do from us. Do you find elsewhere the little details so carefully looked after, such as coat sleeves and pants being exactly the proper length, and not bothered with returning goods to exchange on account of fit objections? No suit of clothes leaves our house unless we are completely satisfied with the fit. When we are, "you will be too."
